True Love In Our Homes

If you are wondering what type of decorative items you could use for October, a true believer will never use any type of ghosts, skeletons, or skulls. Anything related with death is a clear indication that in your home you approve of participating in evil, darkness, witchcraft, or anything that has to do with invocations to dead people or killing animals or sacrifices dedicated to satan.

A person who claims that halloween is his or her favorite holiday is openly saying that nothing else is more important than that. Not Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving, Mother's Day, Father's Day, not even the birthday of a loved one, Independence Day, nothing else is more important than participating in a diabolical activity. Come on! That night is not about family and fun. Believing that is really absurd.

Children do not need candy. We all like candy, but we don't need candy. Much less, children do not need that particular night of social entertainment, as some people want to put it. Children need education, direction, guidance. Not another way to entertain them.

Any responsible parent should entertain their children periodically in an intelligent way, as they check what those kids are watching on TV and on their phones when they are alone. If anything, what children need is true love in their homes, and to go to church every week.

There are wonderful things that you can use to decorate your home. Do not be another naive or deceived person by inviting demons to come to your house. Are you intentionally asking satanic influence to come and possess the minds of your kids? Think!

There are excellent ways for kids to have a weekly way to be entertained and to socialize with everyone, not just with kids. Parents need to do their job when the kids are little to guide them, love them, educate them, and entertain them. But telling yourself that your kids have to socialize with demon possessed people, promoting anything evil, and of course, including endorsing homosexuality. Really? Think!

A devil's worshiper, or someone totally deceived, can't see the importance of true love in our homes. Not once in a while, but every day, having dinner together, talking about school, projects, and the sports and arts that your kids are part of. You and your family need a true social life with other families. Have you forgotten that?

The true love in your home is what you do every day. Communicating with your kids, giving them affection and advice about the challenges they are facing. Loving your children is about spending time with them and listening to them, that is how you can understand them better, and kids love parents that listen to them. Engage with your kids. Be part of their lives, and lead them to become good Christians, and true active church members, involved in your church.

The happiness in a family is not about a night with a custom and candy. Maybe the problem is that adults are just using another excuse to force themselves to smile and laugh because their own personal lives are miserable, which happens to anyone without the Lord God in their hearts. True love comes only from our Lord God. It begins with you, dad and mom. No matter what happened in the past, you can still make changes today. You need to come back to church and bring your kids with you.

IS INTIMACY A MYSTERY? | WS#358 | September 3rd, 2023

Intimacy was designed by God himself with the purpose of providing mental and physical relaxation. This discussion serves as a cautionary reminder about the complexities of intimacy, particularly in matters of love, as it can sometimes expose individuals to manipulative tactics that may lead them astray.

WHO AM I? | WS#361 | September 24th, 2023

You may have thought about this question at some point in your life. Regardless of the answer you arrived at, it's important to recognize that God has an intimate understanding of your true self, as He is the one who crafted you. Life's trials and tribulations can sometimes lead us to perceive ourselves inaccurately. Therefore, it's crucial to attentively heed the guidance of the Lord to gain a deeper insight into your genuine identity.

Eating Right

Eating right is the one idea that most of us dream about.

We all have our preferences about meats, snacks, drinks, and meals in general. That's understandable. Our concern is about our health, not just our weight. We care for our looks, but it is beyond that. It is also not about pretending being someone perfect, or even trying to add years of life to our lives. No.

It is simply about consciously eating right to regain good health, so we can have a much better quality of life.

Our main arguments are: I don't have enough time or money to purchase healthy stuff. I don't have time to cook. I'm too busy.

If you really believe those 2 arguments you are saying, then my health is not that important, and whatever happens to me in the future will happen anyways.

Turn off the TV and the phone. Take time to breathe and think about your health and your future. You need peace. You need good health. You need it now so that you can have a much better quality of life in the future. If you love yourself.

The Lord God loves you no matter what. Skinny or chubby, healthy or sick, etc. It is about your loving yourself, and taking care of your own self. Taking care of your own body, for your own future.

Make time to clean your mind. Think about what is good for your health. Begin understanding what foods and drinks are bad for you, and then prepare a list of the good things you should be consuming.

Learn to eat with moderation. Chew your food. Watch the size of your portions. Drink more water. Try to move more, walk, do not eat too late in the night, to have a good night of sleep and rest.

You don't need a Harvard degree to understand that.

Being a genuine Christian doesn't guarantee a life of constant comfort. In reality, you will encounter both highs and lows, and face rejection and discrimination from others. These trials might be part of God's plan to strengthen your faith in Him. In the midst of these challenges, it's important to find joy, knowing that eternal blessings are always with you.

What value do you contribute to the world as a Christian? The Bible teaches us that we are like salt. This analogy implies that we possess the potential to positively influence the lives of non-Christians and enhance the world around us. This message will guide you on how to effectively embody this concept of being "good salt".

Let your inner light shine, for you are the chosen lamp of God, illuminating the world. The light within you holds great significance for the lives of others. God has placed this light within you for a specific purpose - not to keep it hidden, but to cast illumination upon the world, allowing God's presence to be reflected through your actions.

LESSON LEARNED

Once upon a time, there were these two perfect little boys. Yeah, right! If the truth be known, these boys were not perfect, and neither was their mom. The sweet, little boys were mine, as you probably have already figured out. One day they were playing in their room. Let me rephrase that. They were roughhousing! Now these two little boys had a bunk bed, and as you can imagine, they were wrestling on the top bed. Where was their mom? She was cleaning the kitchen, which she did quite often, I might add.

Now this story is not about what THEY did, as much as what their mom did not do. Again, they were on the top of the bunk bed, wrestling, or so I was told the story. Of course, I have heard different variations of this story throughout the years. I really do not know who or what to believe. However, knowing my two boys, they were definitely wrestling.

As I was cleaning dishes, I heard the Lord tell me to go check on the boys, and it wasn't a gentle nudge either. I could tell it was more of an urgent voice. However, not wanting to immediately put down my dish in the sink, still covered in soap, I decided to take the extra 10 seconds to complete my rinsing task. Literally 10 seconds later, I heard this loud thump of something hitting the floor. It was my youngest son, who was around the age of 4. Immediately I heard an ear-piercing scream! I ran to their room and found him on the floor, doubled up and holding his leg.

If only I had obeyed the voice of the Lord! And remember, this was not a little nudge. I KNEW this was an urgent message from the Holy Spirit, telling me to go to their room right then. I thought simply waiting 10 seconds would not hurt. Boy was I wrong! That day I learned my lesson to obey the Lord. Most the time, it is not an urgent voice that we hear, but I knew this was urgent one.

Lesson learned, to say the least! On the positive side, I began listening more intently to His voice. I realize that accidents happen. On the other hand, I know the Lord is merciful. My son could have broken his neck, but praise God it was nothing serious. Bottom line, I cannot blame God for something I did not do.

What a blessing I received that day. You may ask, "How is that a blessing?" It's a blessing because the lesson I learned that day was an urgent one.

Blessings,

Tracy
